English Course for the
FACULTY OF DENTISTRY
English Course for the
FACULTY OF DENTISTRY

CAES9350
Academic English for Dentistry

The course aims to enhance your ability to communicate effectively across different contexts of language use pertinent to your senior BDS curriculum. In particular, you will learn to write critical reflections on your clinical experience through questioning and hypothesising. You will also develop your academic literacy in scientific research and to develop language skills for your written report as well as oral presentation that are vital to the success of your BDSV Community Health Project (CHP).

When will I take it?

This course aligns with your compulsory ‘Community Health Project’ module in the second semester of your 5th year of study at HKU. Taking this course is a university requirement.

Why do I need to take it?

шение

This course enables you to develop the necessary skills to communicate your professional knowledge and research findings systematically to specialist and non-specialist audiences

This course also helps you develop the ability to analyse and reflect on your clinical experience in dentistry at a range of reflective levels

How will I learn?

Through a genre-based process writing approach which will help you to learn about writing different sections of a scientific research report

By collaborating with peers and learning from others in a flexible learning environment

By receiving feedback from teachers and peers

Through exposure to a technology-enhanced and self-directed learning environment

For more information about the courses

For enquiries, please contact Albert Wong, CAES9350 Course Coordinator: edubert@hku.hk